Dear Classmates:

In the years to come, as you pick up this book, do not forget to thank God for the boys from our class who left us, before their time, to fight for our country.

As you look at this page, please, in your hearts, rededicate this book to them.

In Dedication,

Do You Remember ?

Class Will

We, the class of nineteen hundred forty-five, of East Mauch Chunk High School, in the County of Carbon, State of Pennsylvania, United States of America, do hereby solemnly make this our last will and testament.

I:

Donald Beineman, bequeath my ease of attracting sophomores to Jimmy Brosious.

George Beineman, will my agricultural tendency to John Kroculick.

Howard Berger, give my calmness of mind and bashfulness to William Wilhelm.

William Cadden, donate my G. I. haircuts to Harry Dick.

Marie Eckley, hand down my quiet nature to Sherwood Lory.

Elmer Feuerstein, will my method of teasing the girls to Luther Gower.

Charles Frace, will my artistic ability to Russell Fairchild.

Lois Gassner, leave my cheerleading outfit with Louise Mauger.

Rosemarie Gimbor, bestow my gracefulness to Claire Lauth.

Pauline Guydish, bequeath all my tardy slips to James Burnhauser.

Gloria Hascher, will my height to Chippy McGuire.

Joseph Heimbach, will my daily bus ride to any newcomer from Kidder Township.

Gwen Hill, bestow all my excuses and alibis to all who are inclined to tardiness.

Claire Hock, will my singing apparatus to Norbert Huber.

Joseph Hoehing, hand over my ability to attract a variety of women to Claude Getz.

Rosemary Huber, give my pen pals to the future Senior typists, and my ability to get along with the Irish to Nancy Becker.

Virginia Huber, bestow my cleverness in rolling my orbs to Elene Henry, and my size 12 class ring to anyone who can wear it.

John Kochie, bequeath my ability to get fun out of life to Barbara Twining.

Dolores Leyer, dispose of my prize complexion to all the girls.

Betty McTague, leave my driver's license to anyone fortunate enough to own gas stamps.

Irene Marinchak, hand over my job at the Y. M. C. A. to Romayne Bisbing.

Edward Marzen, hand over my dimes to all who ride the buses.

Robert Mayor, will my careful driving and athletic prowess to Ralph Kreamer.

Ethel Moser, bestow my athletic skill to students lacking in bodily vitality.

Mary Jeane Moser, impart my intelligence to Mossy Gehres.

Lawrence Mulligan, will my natural waves to Delbert Getz.

Beatrice Otto, bequeath my giggles to Dorothy Kibler.

Blair Redline, give my "Shoo-Shoo Baby" to anyone who wants HER.

Dorothy Serfass, bestow my school girl figure to Jimmy Reimer.

John Stemper, will my slow-winning smile to Arthur Fairchild.

June Weichman, impart my pleasure in viewing Lehighton landscape to Marjorie Potter.

Pauline Wildoner, bequeath my jitterbugging to Lucille Norris.

James Whitehead, will my unrivaled record of sleeping in class without snoring to Charles Reis.

To Miss Helman, we leave a pack of needles that were never returned.

To Mrs. Hoppes, we leave our battered, broken-down, well-used typewriters and all the words we didn't pick up in shorthand.

To Miss Boyle, we leave a large French class that really wants to learn.

To Miss Becker, we leave all the Lily Pons' and Lawrence Tibbets' of the future.

To Mr. Shovlin, we leave our old essays, editorials, and our own words such as "ain't," "huh," and "yeh," also a new joke book.

To Miss Rogers, we leave the future Harry James' and Dorseys', also all the notes that were dropped and are floating around the bandroom.

To Mrs. Cresswell, we leave all our excuses from gym classes so that she can look for them in the future.

To Mr. Zaengle, we leave all the broken test tubes and odors of the laboratory. also our chemistry books that we never did want.

To Mr. Prutzman, we leave future students who will not argue and sleep in his math classes.

To Mr. Mauger, we leave all the unfinished articles we began so eagerly in shop but never completed.

To Mrs. Mauger, we leave our old newspaper reports and P.D. books that are still in good condition because of the little use we made of them. Also the corny jokes we made in her class.

To Miss Oldfield, we leave a homeroom that is quiet and will help her decorate the bulletin board.

To Miss Durnin, we leave a box of bandage, adhesive tape, iodine, and aspirins which she used to soothe our many aches and pains.

To Mrs. Trainer, we leave a quiet study hall to replace our noisy one.

To Mr. Morris, we leave a more quiet student body, perfect reports, and all our excuses and alibis for being absent or late so that he can watch for them in the near future.

To Miss Cossman, we leave a new typewriter ribbon to replace the one she wore out typing our tardy and absentee slips.

To Mr. Smith, we leave a much needed rest, with the new Seniors doing all the work.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, we affix our hand and seal on this 29th day of May, one thousand nine hundred forty-five.

Class Prophecy

The trip to New York on Marzen's Transcontinental Bus Line was wonderful. On our first stop we visited George Beineman, that great New York furrier. We watched his employees, Rosemary Huber and June Weichman, model fur coats from Allen Prutzman's Canadian Fur Farm and dresses designed by Gwendolyn. We proceeded to the Stoneafeller Center built by Blair Redline, the famous architect, and owned by Howard Berger, the Texas cattle baron. The great senatorial debater, Elmer Feuerstein, joined us at Hoehing's combined restaurant and foodstore, where Robert Mayor's Green Barons were being featured. As we entered, James Whitehead was playing a trombone solo, "Here Comes the Bride," for Lois Gassner, who had just married a movie actor. We visited Lawrence Mulligan's art studio and met his private secretary, Pauline Wildoner. Lawrence invited us to attend a show at Joe Heimbach's Downtown Theatre, where "Poison and Old Lace" was showing. Mary Jeane Moser and Claire Hock were the principals in the play. The second show featured Ethel Moser, the sensational girl athlete, and that slap-happy comedian, John Kochie. We boarded a bus going to the Metropolitan Museum, where we saw pictures painted by that now famous artist, Charles Frace. Leaving the museum, we strolled through Central Park and, to our pleasant surprise, we saw three cadet nurses, Gloria Hascher, Pauline Guydish, and Betty McTague, feeding the squirrels. On our way out of Central Park, we met two sailors, Jack Stemper and Pete Cadden, who joined us for the rest of the tour. We made a mad rush for the upper seats on a double-decker bus. In a few minutes we arrived at the New York airport, where we were cheerfully greeted by the hostess, Beatrice Otto. A transport plane, piloted by Donald Beineman, landed, and the great authoress, Virginia Huber, and her charming secretary, Rosemarie Ginbor, alighted. They were attending the American Open Air Food Market supervised by Marie, Dolores, and Dorothy. The trip was organized under the auspices of Irene Marinchak, secretary of the local Y. M. C. A.

Basketball Season

This year's Varsity under the coaching of O. W. Anderson and captained by Joe Hoehing, compiled a record of eight wins and twenty losses.

Next year's team will be greatly weakened by the loss of practically the whole first string through graduation, but the second-string players have come through in some tight spots, so the future isn't too black.

Playing an important role in the success of the Varsity were three seniors, Robert Mayor, Elmer Feuerstein, and Joe Hoehing. Able assistance came from the two other starters, Norbert Blum, a sophomore, and William Wilhelm of the junior class. Other members of the squad were William Clenwell, William Cadden, Francis Watto, Blair Redline, Sherwood Lory, John Bunso, and Gerald Jackson.

Junior Varsity

This year's Junior Varsity Basketball team, better known as the Mighty Mites, under the guidance of Coach John P. Shovlin and captained by Marvin Searfoss, compiled a record of twelve wins and eight losses for a .600 percentage.

Included among the J. V. achievements on the hardwood was a perfect first-half season, which saw the Mites notch five wins against no setbacks. After a slow early season start, the locals warmed up an eight-game winning streak. Included among the victims of the J-V's, were their bitter rivals from across the river, the Mauch Chunk boys, bowing twice by decisive scores.

Playing an important role in the success of the Junior Varsity were three ninth-grade boys, Marvin Searfoss, Francis Watto, and James Hartman, the latter two leading the team in scoring. Able assistance came from the two other starters, John Bunso, a junior, and Sherwood Lory of the sophomore class. Also breaking into the lineup late in the season was another tenth grader, Gerald Jackson. Other members of the second squad for the past season were James Brosius, Charles Reis, Richard Dick, Francis Mulligan, Charles Rodgers, Raymond Bretz, and Edward Crowley.

Diary of a Senior

Sept. 5—And 33 sophisticated seniors entered room 5 to begin our last year of school (we hope).

" 6—Spent the morning anxiously watching the clock and thinking, "Won't it ever be 12 o'clock so we can go to Lehighton Fair?"

" 7—A few seniors were wishing it was June 8 (already).

" 13—(Someone moaning in back of the room). Mrs. Nace: "Does someone have growing pains?" Joe: "It can't be that, he's a senior."

" 15—Gena: "Why do we have to make a scorecard and judge our canned fruit?" Miss Helman: "So you can judge fruits and vegetables when you go to the store." Gena: "How are we going to see through a tin can?"

" 20—Pauline Wildoner (in Senior Science): "Do the quills of a porcupine grow on a tree?"

" 21—Miss Becker: "Can anyone tell me something about Schubert?" Pauline: "He's dead."

" 22—Dorothy, Betty, Gena, and Lois: "What happened to your jelly in H. Ec. today? It looked like candy."

Oct. 3—Mr. Sharp explains the fundamentals of publishing a yearbook during English class today.

" 6—Senior girls were sewing the mats today.

" 13—Whose cake fell on the floor after you had it iced?

" 14—We held our first bake sale today.

" 16—At last! Two days off. Teachers' Institute.

" 24—Beatsie: "Where's my 18-month-old baby?" Pete: "If it's 18 months old, it should be running around here some place." (It was a picture Beatsie needed for hygiene).

" 27—Today we counted up all the calories we didn't eat.

" 30—John Kochie gave a talk on nurses. Mr. Zaengle: "What elements are found in the sea?" John: "Fish."

Nov. 1—First day of hunting season. Quite a number of boys are absent.

" 2—Claire, Rosemary, and Mary Jeane discussing what they are going to wear to usher at the Grade School operetta. Rosemary: "Are you wearing high shoes?"

" 17—Senior High School play was a great success.

" 20—Entertained by a magician in assembly today.

" 21—We just learned that Eppie gives Miss Rogers nightmares.

" 22—Half session today because Thanksgiving vacation begins.

" 27—We were entertained by Dr. Nichols, the famous whistler.

" 30—Jack Stemper kissed the senior girls (all of them) good-bye before leaving for the Navy. Word was received that Fred Burnhauser, a former classmate, was wounded in action.

Dec. 1—Girls' basketball was begun today. Ethel Moser and Gloria Hascher, two seniors, are the captains.

" 21—Members of the band held a Christmas party today.

Dec. 22—Class party was held and we said good-bye to Mrs. Nace, our class adviser.

Jan. 2—Vacation is over. We're ready to start the new year right with a lot of good resolutions we never keep.

" 8—We had a pleasant surprise when we came to school today. Miss Oldfield, our new class adviser, began to teach.

" 10—Claire had the math class in an uproar today until Mr. Prutzman told her the house wasn't on fire, but that the sun melting the snow on the roof caused it to smoke.

" 11—Ethel fell asleep in Hygiene class today. "Have a hard night, Ethel?"

" 30—"What are two or more elements that are found together called?" Pete: "Friends."

Feb. 28—Oh!! What an odor. The seniors made hydrogen sulfide today.

Mar. 1—Mr. Prutzman: "Gwen, what's the answer?" Gwen: "Uh?" Mr. Prutzman: "My dreams are getting better all the time."

" 6—Mrs. Mauger: "Take your T. B. books and study."

" 7—In study hall, Mr. Shovlin telling us about a test. Question: "How did Sir Walter Scott end the story?" Answer: "He stopped writing."

" 14—Mrs. Mauger coughing. Suggestions: Kochie hands her cough drops. Gloria: "Get a drink." Beatsie: "Take a powder."

" 15—Just like spring today, so we had our first gym class outside. Mrs. Cresswell coached from the steps.

Apr. 20—High School operetta, "Gypsy Troubador," was a great success.

May 12—Junior Prom.

" 24, 25, 28—Examinations! Those gruesome things again. Make them good, seniors, these are the ones that count.

June 1—Class Day! Fun for everyone.

" 3—Baccalaureate services.

" 6—Senior ball. What beautiful gowns!

" 8—At last our big day is here. Commencement. With tears in our eyes we bid adieu to our fellow classmates and pleasant memories.

" 9—Everything is over and we're off to New York.

Corridor Echoes

"Did you do your homework?"
"Where's my pen?"
"Hi, pal."
"Gee, I'm glad that's over."
"Where's your Latin homework?"
"Thanks to the bell."
"Did you pass?"
"Wasn't that class awful?"
"Who has the 'sign-out' slip?"
"What a day!"
"How many days 'till June?"
"Did the second bell ring yet?"
"When I was your age."
"You won't do that in the army."
"Why pick on me?"
"Where's the place?"
"Classwork—ZERO."
"Boys! Did she lay it on?"
"To the office? Oh, boy!"
"Had company last night. Couldn't study."
"Put that gum in the basket."
